Can You Picture OHIO without Doctors?

Today, Ohio's doctors and nurses by the hundreds are serving with our Army and Navy from Alaska to Iran, from Australia to Italy — bringing back to health the men who are helping win Victory for the United Nations. But on the home front, other thousands of doctors and nurses are fighting doubly hard to keep their fellow-citizens of Ohio in good health — doing everything in their power to prevent or minimize interruptions in our State's war effort.
In a very real sense the well-being of Ohioans is in the capable hands of nearly 9,000 physicians and surgeons and about 18,000 nurses. At their disposal are the facilities of 247 hospitals which have beds for over 57,000 patients at one time. In an average year more than half a million patients are admitted to these institutions. To the Ohio Department of Health goes well-deserved credit for the high standards of medical care prevailing in our State.
We of the Greyhound Lines pay tribute to these fellow-citizens of ours who are doing so much to make our State a finer place to live in. They're doing a big job—a vital one. Greyhound's job is quite different—but vital, too! Providing safe, convenient transportation service is particularly important now. By making near neighbors and good neighbors of all the communities we serve in Ohio, we are helping unify the war efforts of this State—keeping them rolling toward Victory!

CONG. SMITH URGES DEBT BILL PASSAGE

Says Federal Workers Should Not Have Immunity.

Congressman F. C. Smith of Marion spoke to members of congress late last week in support of a measure making federal officials and employes subject to court action to collect debts, and in doing so explained his reasons for voting for the measure, according to a news report from Washington. The text of his comments to congress follows:

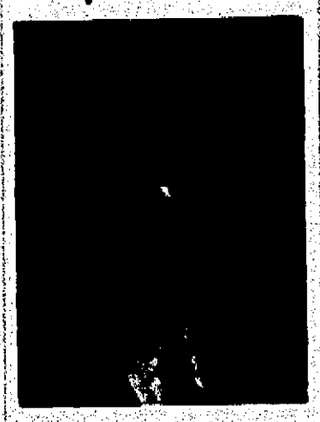

"Members of the house should be able this afternoon to see at least one serious affliction that ails our country. One of the prime functions of government is the enforcement of contract and to apply the same principle of law to all citizens alike. Up to the present time federal employes, including congressmen, have been exempted by federal statute from being sued for the collection of debts on their salaries, while the great bulk of persons in private employment are subject to being sued for the payment of their debts.

"The bill which we are considering would remove this discrimination and place federal employes in the same class with private citizens. How it is possible to conceive an honest argument against the passage of this measure I can not comprehend. Not so long ago a bill slipped through this house which provided for pensions for congressmen. We all know the reaction of the whole nation to that procedure. Now the fact is that the same principle is involved in the bill before us as was involved in the law that granted pensions to congressmen. I feel it my bounden duty to vote for this bill from that standpoint. How can I go back to my district and say to my people that I voted for a bill which put me in a special class, where I would not have to pay my debts.

"Who is objecting to this measure and why? Certainly only those who would be affected by it, which represents a comparatively few people on the federal payroll. Surely those federal government employes who pay their debts, which includes a vast majority of them, do not object to the passage of this bill. It can not be that they want to be set off as a separate privileged group and be exempted from the payment of their debts. Indeed, I venture to say that every federal employe who pays his debts will welcome the passage of this act."

Marion Army Mail Clerk Says V-Mail Too Brief

Most soldiers prefer first class mail and don't think much of V-mail, according to Cpl. Paul McKinney, 28, of Marion, a mail clerk with a Sixth Army ordnance company in New Guinea, according to a communication from the general headquarters of the southwest Pacific area.

"Even if it's slower, they prefer it to the short notes on V-Mail," he told a reporter. "You can get a nice letter on a V-Mail with a typewriter, but few people type."

McKinney said mail was getting in regularly — about two weeks for V-Mail from the States. Packages were very slow—some taking several months.

He is living in a tent in the jungle. He uses his steel helmet for a wash basin, as most troops in the area do, but his unit is luckier than most—it has a shower equipped with a water pump.

Cpl. McKinney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. McKinney of 266 Silver street.

He was employed at the American Malleable Casting Co. before his induction and has been stationed overseas for about 18 months. A brother, Pvt. Edward McKinney, has been stationed in Italy since last September.

SON OF MORRAL WOMAN PRISONER

Card in November Last Word from Sgt. Larry O'Hara.

MORRAL, O., March 7—Among the Marion county men now held prisoners of the Japanese is First Sgt. Larry O'Hara, 34, son of Mrs. B. A. Berry of Morral. According to word received by his mother, Sgt. O'Hara was taken prisoner following the fall of the Philippines in 1941.

Sgt. O'Hara, a bombardier, with the 98th Bombing Squadron, was at Pearl Harbor at the time of the attack and later took part in the battles of Bataan and Corregidor.

A graduate from Warsaw High school, Warsaw, O., in 1929, he enlisted in the air corps in 1939 in Seattle, Wash. He received training in camps in Illinois, Indiana, New Mexico, graduating from March Field, Calif., as bombardier.

The last communication from him was received by a sister and was a regulation postcard written last November when he informed the family that he was well.

Another brother, Cpl. Stanford J. O'Hara is stationed with the signal corps at Camp Leonard Wood, Mo.

WHY GOD PERMITS WAR!

Why does God permit war? Why does He permit cruelty, injustice, pain, starvation, sickness and death?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answers to these questions. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.

That Power, he says, can transform the life of any one. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong, can be solved.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition. Thirty years ago he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck of him, physically and mentally.

He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants every one to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

Within ten years he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the world's leading geographical societies for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still so athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.

As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this notice a 9,000-word treatise. It is free. For your free copy, send your name and address to the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., J-34, Los Angeles, 4, Calif. Write promptly. —Adv.

"Victories call for More and More Materials" —Donald M. Nelson

Never in all history has war been so costly.

Supplies are used up at an astounding rate.

And carrying this equipment and materials in ever increasing quantities is the big job right now for Erie and other American Railroads.

For example: In some campaigns, uniforms wore out in a week . . . a division used up all its guns in one month's campaign . . . many troops required new shoes after 3 days of fighting . . . two divisions engaged in jungle warfare had to be completely re-equipped with almost 1500 new vehicles.

After every victory, occupied territory must be restored to useful purposes. This, too, creates terrific demands for thousands of tons of supplies.

Equipment, food, fuel and munitions must reach fighting men in time—must be transported almost halfway around the world.

With the continued help of shippers, government agencies and the public, Erie and other American Railroads will not fail your fighting men.

WORK STOPPAGE HITS AKRON TIRE PLANT

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., March 7—A company spokesman today reported a work stoppage in several departments of the General Tire & Rubber Co.'s East Akron plant.

No estimate on the number of workers involved in the walkout was available but a spokesman for the concern said no departments were closed down.

Howard Haas, former president of the General local of the CIO United Rubber Workers, said the workers were protesting the discharge of Ray Sullivan, another former General local president.

The two were expelled from the union by the URW's international executive board for "disruptive activity" when they protested President Sherman Dalrymple's action in dismissing 49 bandroom employes for participation in an unauthorized work stoppage Jan. 7. The international executive board announced reinstatement of 62 of the men last Saturday.

Loss of union membership subjected Haas and Sullivan to discharge by the company under a maintenance of membership clause in the company-union contract.

Railroads Are Here To Stay

IN the 97th annual report of Pennsylvania Railroad Co., President M. W. Clements warns against the long-range effects of the present method of applying excess profits taxes. He says they are making it impossible to set aside adequate reserves to cover accumulating deferred maintenance costs and obsolescence.

His warning is similar to that being issued by other spokesmen for industrial enterprise, but it carries special weight because of the special situation of railroads. They are here to stay; they are not war industries. With or without profits, they must be maintained. The function they perform is indispensable, as their wartime service has clearly demonstrated.

"During the last several decades," President Clements explains, "the processes of regulation have made it necessary for most of the financing by the railroads to be done with borrowed money for which they are not given adequate credit in calculating return on investment. Again, the railroads have not been, like other industries, in a position to carry adequate charges for depreciation and obsolescence-amorization, and income which should properly be charged off for these purposes is subject to the excess profits tax. Thus the railroads find a large part of what is, in fact, no more than a reasonable return on their investment, treated as excess profits and subjected to an enormous excess profits tax, where in fact no excess profits exist."

Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee is given credit for possibly the most penetrating observation ever made on taxes: "You can shear a sheep indefinitely, but you can only skin it once."

Between the Extremes

JOHN L. LEWIS, formerly the president of CIO—and its founder—has been quoted to the effect that the organization is dominated by Communists. This will produce the customary deadlock following all allegations of this nature.

Philip Murray, who succeeded Mr. Lewis as president of CIO affirms that his organization is not dominated by Communists, which settles nothing. When Mr. Lewis was president, he dealt with Communists in CIO; they helped him get it under way. Virtually every well known spokesman for organized labor, regardless of individual organizations, has admitted at one time or another that Communists have been busy bees in the labor movement. The public impression, now of long standing, is that the Communists have used organized labor to the full extent of their ability, depending on how firmly they were resisted. A parallel public impression is that most labor leaders who are not avowed Communists, themselves, are just as concerned about this as the outsiders who are concerned about it.

Yet, whenever the question is raised it never gets any further than someone's charge that Communists are running everything and someone's denial, to the general effect that they aren't running anything. One side of the argument becomes just as unconvincing as the other side, which is no doubt why the public continues to draw its own conclusions halfway between the two extremes.

Elmer Davis Goes After a Story

OTHER Washington correspondents can be excused for laughing if Elmer Davis, director of the war information, tries his luck at finding out whether Franklin D. Roosevelt is ready to announce his candidacy for renomination and reelection yet. This would seem to be the first move under his agency's new standing instructions to designate no man as a candidate for the presidential nomination unless he so declares himself.

Mr Roosevelt has not declared himself, even though no one doubts his intentions. Therefore, he cannot be identified as a candidate. On the Republican side, only Gov. Bricker and Wendell L. Willkie have declared themselves. If Mr. Davis could get this matter straightened out and compile an official list of who else is running he would be in line for a Pulitzer prize.

Whose Man?

IN THE New York City congressional district election won by a so-called Democratic candidate, his margin of victory was only half the total of American Labor party votes cast in his favor. Without those votes, he would have lost to his Republican opponent. When Democrats claim their man won, they must explain who holds the other share in him and who holds the balance of power in New York politics.

In the 1940 presidential election, the American Labor party in New York state gave Candidate Roosevelt 417,418 votes. Without those votes he would have lost New York to Candidate Willkie by 192,873 votes, which is something to think about when political debts are being paid off. The Democratic party carried New York for Roosevelt in 1940, but the party had to be carried by the American Labor party. Outside New York City, where American Labor party mustered only 100,000-odd votes in 1940 and the Democratic machines are only so-so, Candidate Roosevelt never had a chance.

News Behind the News

Proposals for Making Studies "Easy" for Students Criticized.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 7—Best possible claims for progressive education—which I say has inspired juvenile delinquency and threatened the future of this republic—has been presented by an old friend, Mr. Don Ewing, associate editor of the Shreveport Times.

He is not a pearl-vest social educator or Gideon plankt. He is not bowed down by any political school board interested in selling newer textbooks for what there is in them—but not necessarily what is between the covers. He is an intelligent, sincere believer, and his main challenging point to me can be boiled down to this:

"Children must not be forced into a subject until they are ready for it mentally. To read, speak and write English, the child must be fully at ease in parsing grammar.

"Does a child not better understand the value of a cotton gin by seeing it in operation than by memorizing the date of the inventor? Wouldn't you prefer in every subject—except spelling and mathematics—to teach by demonstrating and observing first hand, instead of memorizing?"

Proposal Criticized

Your theory is that the child merely be exposed to education, that it must not be hard or difficult. It assumes that every child is just dying to absorb education if merely exposed in a kindly way and it it is made easy for him.

Now you and I, and everyone else who ever went to school, knows this is not true. Human beings are not made that way, child or adult. School is a child's work. There may be a few in every class who will work whether or not it is required, but not the average human being.

Would your progressive educators train a football team not to tax its energies? Or urge it is use its utmost energies?

Do you think our army and navy would be facing victory today if merely exposed to training in a kindly way instead of going through the difficult grind of thoroughly absorbing every detail of every fighting weapon and method better than our enemies have learned them?

Hard Lessons Learned Best

Which lessons of life have you learned best, the hard ones or the easy ones?

What business could succeed under that theory?

What anything?

Where did anyone ever get the idea that a child's mind is any different from an adult in its eagerness for work?

Physicists and mothers will tell you the average six months old baby can outsmart the average mother (knows when to cry and how to get what he wants by trickery and otherwise).

These progressive educators, therefore, are not modernists but old-fogeys because they do not know the human mind or human nature. Their premise is wrong. Their basic theory is unworkable.

Education is simply teaching people how to think. The specific information you receive in school is generally of little value in after life (probably of less personal value than what you learn outside the class rooms by personal association which contributes more to developing your way of life).

The only way to teach our youngsters to think is to require them to improve their minds, not to accept them as they are. Memorizing is something that no one can circumvent by bulling his way through in school. You have to learn it or you do not pass.

Work for Mind

Your mind may not absorb all the meanings, but it must work to memorize. The more difficult this may be for a youngster, the more improvement that will be wrought in him.

Now do not tell me, Don, that you and your progressive educators never bulled your way through subjects with a teacher. Personally, I found I could talk myself around practically every subject except Latin. That was the one which I could not get easily. I was required to keep at it by my on fear-shame of quitting. That was the standard then.

Under your theory, there would have been no shame, and I would have quit. Now I know that my required application on that subject taught me more about how to think than the subjects I learned more easily.

This is a hard world, Don. The way to prepare a person or a nation to survive in it is not by encouraging laziness. Nothing worthwhile in life has ever been achieved the easy way—education, success, victory in wars.

"Easy Way" Hit

Do you think the Russians are going to educate their coming generation that way? Or the British with their high educational standards which have made that small nation a superior one through generations?

Progressive education will fail just as its related popular doctrine of "the easy way" will fail. No one will kill it. It will die of its own fulfillment just as all other false conceptions must die at the inevitable bastion of nature.

If it runs its trend, it will make us the soft, ease-loving, anti-working, anti-exertion people that have always fallen in history before energetic, hard-working, success-striving people. That end is already being prophesied for us by our outstanding philosophers who see no other end possible for our long run.

We have now one belated chance to awaken and modernize our theories and one place we could modernize is in education, not just in the few progressive education schools, but in all schools where the false theories of your doctrine has inspired a lack of discipline, an easing of requirement, and "the easy way."

Need Seen To Plan Now for Russian Outlets to the Open Seas.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

BEHIND several questions now in the news there is looming up the very great question of Russia's access to the open sea both in peace and in war. We shall do well to take this question very seriously for upon the wise and successful solution of it the relations between Russia and the western powers may depend.

So vast a country as Russia, with such a huge and growing population, cannot remain landlocked, and it will in one way or another open assured pathways to the high seas. The American and the British nations will come out of this war in command of the high seas. Statemanship demands that we look ahead so as to accommodate, before any conflict develops, the vital interests of Russia and ourselves.

This question is involved in the Finnish, the Polish, the Turkish, the Bulgarian and the Greek problems in eastern Europe, in all the problems of the Middle East, and it is implicit in the conclusion of the Japanese war and the settlement in eastern Asia.

There are three maritime highways to Russia from the Atlantic ocean. One of them is around the North Cape. We have kept it open but only at great risk and cost because the Germans overran Norway and because Finland sided with Germany.

Second Route

The second is through the Baltic Sea. It has been closed because the Germans occupied the whole southern shore from Denmark to the gates of Leningrad, and all the entrances to the sea. The third way to Russia is across the Mediterranean through the Turkish Straits to the Black Sea. This has been closed by the German conquest of the Balkan Peninsula and the Greek islands.

If we could open the Baltic or the Black Sea entrance we could shorten the war decisively. We have been unable to do that because the Germans closed the gates. They closed them because the gates belong to small and weak neutrals. The Germans did not respect their neutrality. The neutrals were unable to defend their neutrality. The neutrals have suffred hideously. But so also have the Russians, the British and the Americans, who are compelled as a result to fight a much longer and more exhausting war.

We must think twice, therefore, before we assume too glibly that we have been true to our principles and have upheld the rights of small nations if we merely seek to restore them to the status quo ante of weak neutrality.

Those principles have resulted in the conquest and brutal oppression of every small European nation where it served the strategic purposes of Germany. It follows that in the reorganization of Europe, and of the world, the small nations will also have duties to perform in maintaining the general security.

It will, for example, be essential to make sure that the Baltic is an open highway between the western powers and Russia. This is physical necessity in any workable plan to prevent the revival of German military power. But to keep open the Baltic it is necessary that Denmark, Norway, Poland, Finland, and we may hope, Sweden as well, make definite military engagements by which they can do their necessary part in keeping open the connection between Britain and Russia.

Specific Arrangements

They cannot be unarmed and they cannot be neutral and they cannot have a vacillating foreign policy if this result is to be achieved. Nor can they rely upon general engagements under some new covenant of a reconstitutional league.

The general engagements are desirable and necessary. But for specific countries in a specific strategic zone like the Baltic much more specific arrangements

The Problems of Lasting Peace

By Herbert Hoover and Hugh Gibson

(This is another installment of the newly-revised, up-to-the-minute version of their important book, The Problems of Lasting Peace, prepared especially for this series by Herbert Hoover, thirty-first President of the United States and Hugh Gibson, former minister to Poland and Ambassador to Belgium and Brazil.)

INSTALLMENT II

A New Approach to Peace Making

NATIONS have often enough been successful in making war. But they have never yet been successful in making lasting peace. More and more over the centuries the world has developed the art and the method of making war. But it has never developed an art and method of making peace. More and more the methods of peace have resulted in a wider spread of catastrophe. Surely it is time we have a new approach to peace-making.

The whole nature of war and its aftermaths was changed when total and global war first came to the world thirty years ago. Old methods of making peace have been as much outmoded as have the old methods of making war.

For over a century wars had as a rule involved only two or three nations at a time. They included only a small segment of the world. The aftermaths were not so far-reaching. The peace-making and healing processes had to deal with only a limited area. But in the last total war, and in the present war, 40 nations with 90 per cent of the people in the world are involved with all their multiplied conflicting interests and aspirations.

Both the failure of peace through all history and this shift in the shape of war in itself demand a new approach to the making of peace.

Before we make proposals of a new method of peace making we must examine realistically and in some detail the immediate situation that will confront us when victory has been won.

There will be a brief period of relief the instant firing ceases because of the great load of fear lifted from the minds of men. Great hopes for the future will rise with this relief. But soon the spirits of the world will sink in despair at the stark scene of political, moral and economic devastation.

There are today about 44 nations at war with the Axis or parts of it. The Axis armies have overrun 400,000,000 people belonging to the United Nations. These armies have occupied some 18 countries.

WITH victory these wholly invaded nations will at once set up their own governments. But industry will be damaged or ruined. Transportation and communication will be demoralized. Their people will all be short of food or actually starving. They will be without credit or raw materials. There will be devastating unemployment. Their long and terrible suffering will express itself in bitterness and hate toward the enemy nations.

In the five enemy countries the demoralization will be even greater. With defeat, leaders and governments will be overthrown. Revolution will march and new men will come into ascendancy with bitter internal conflicts. This has already happened in Italy.

The victorious countries which have not been invaded will be greatly exhausted and will be confronted with enormous new problems of disabled veterans and orphans, of debts, of unemployment and of reconstruction. Turning from mass production of swords to mass production of plowshares will not be easy.

Our men, and the men in every army, will clamor to come home at once the enemy is disarmed. Their wives and parents in every land will demand that they be brought home quickly. When they return they will demand by right of their service and sacrifice, that a chance in life be restored to them, and they will rightly make themselves heard. Nor are they coming home willing for their countries' substance and rights to be sacrificed in the peace making.

THE whole world will realize that civilization cannot survive if there is to be another such conflict with this development of weapons, this destruction of homes, industries and cities, this killing of more civilian men, women and children in their homes than soldiers at the front. There will be a stern demand upon statesmen from all the peoples of the world that there shall be lasting peace this time.

In all this welter of hope, suffering, wrong, devastation, hate, a peace will have to be organized.

Each of every one of these many nations will make demands in the peace-making. The spirit of Nationalism will run high within them. They must try to secure the utmost in political and economic advanage for their impoverished and suffering people. And greed, arrogance, subtle age-old diplomacy will not be absent. There will be clamor for haste that industry and trade may be resumed. There will be dangers rising from the white heat of fear, hate, and revenge. All our problems will be multiplied by the number of nations and their divergent interests. All this will tend to destroy or debilitate constructive effort and to drive toward improvised solutions, destructive compromises and disregard of the fundamental forces in motion which make for renewed war.

It is the most disadvantageous moment for peacemakers to get to work rebuilding the world, for the destructive dynamic forces in many ways reach their most explosive point immediately after cessation of hosilities. The disciplines and purposes of war have collapsed and new disciplines and purposes cannot immediately be put into action. All this happened after the last war, and it will happen again.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Wednesday, March 7, 1934.

The state civil service commission certified the names of three men eligible for appointment as manager of the Marion county state liquor store. They were Francis Bacon, Walter Hane and Gerald Kleinmaier.

Mrs. Celia Alberta Kear, 62, former resident of Marion, died at her home in Wharton.

Mrs. Frances Scott, 50, died at her home six miles north of Marion on the Lucas road.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Young of Cardington.

A pasture along the Marion-Columbus road a mile south of Marion was pressed into use as a landing field for an Army bombing plane forced down by engine trouble. The landing was made by Second Lieut. John L. McAllister, flying a mail route between Cleveland and Chicago. He narrowly escaped injury, and the plane was not damaged. One of the plane's two motors failed, forcing the pilot to make an emergency landing.

Mrs. Minerva Ann Myers, 63, died at her home 10 miles east of Marion.

Miss Dorothy Jane Blake and E. Bovie Morgan, both of Marion, were united in marriage at the Blake home on South Vine street by Rev. Franklin G. Markley of Epworth Methodist church.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, March 7, 1924.

Bonds amounting to $69,700 to cover Marion county's half of the cost of improving sections of the Marion-Mt. Gilead road were sold by the county commissioners to Pruden & Co., of Toledo, on their premium bid of $1,616.

Miss Lillian Dannenberg and Earl Baldauf, both of Marion, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Dannenberg in the Trumbull apartments on South Main street by Rev. J. W. Schillinger of Emanuel Lutheran church.

Mrs. Anna Young was reelected president of the Marion County Democratic Woman's club at a meeting held in the clubrooms on East Church street.

Members of the Eight and Ate club were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Eibling at their home on Charles street.

Vernon Heights Junior High school basketball team was defeated by the Washington C. H. Junior High school team at Washington C. H., 20-9. The Marion lineup consisted of Evans, Lewis, Fogle, Kramer and Stafford.

Honus Wagner

Mention of the Great Dutchman Brings Flood of Reminiscences About His Ball-Playing.

By DAMON RUNYON

EVERY MAIL brings additions to my store of Wagneriana (Honus Wagner). By the way, I ought to clarify my vague statement as to his age. The Pittsburgh baseball immortal recently turned 70. He is in fine health and ready for his 1944 duties as one of the coaches of the Pirates.

Fred Clarke would naturally know more about the mighty Honus than anyone else. Clarke, a great ball player in his own right, managed the Pirates over the long stretch of years when Wagner was in his heyday. Ambrose Bowyer of Los Angeles, a one-time semi-pro player, got Clarke to talking about "the Flying Dutchman" one day.

"Wagner was the greatest ball player of all time," Clarke said, (according to Mr. Bowyer's report to me.) "What a player he would be today with this lively ball and the restrictions on pitchers. He could hit any kind of pitching and never pegged the ball to the wrong spot.

"He was never temperamental and was always in condition. People thought he was dumb. He let them think he was dumb—especially pitchers—sucking them into traps as stale as the old time hidden ball trick. For instance, he would swing at the first ball pitched, miss it a mile and fall down, knowing the next pitch would be just like the first. Then he would hit it out of the park.

"Yes, and against pitchers who knew all about him. Why? Because vanity caused the pitcher to think he had found the spot where Honus was not hitting 'em that day. Cocky pitchers with the crowd jeering Honus just lost their mental balance. Couldn't resist giving Honus another pitch in the same spot. Honus had taken a good look at the first one.

"HE HAD ONE fault that got on my nerves in tight games. With an easy out at first he would hold back his throw so the ball beat the runner about a foot. I kept telling him about it. At last I raised hell. "Well," Honus said, 'let 'em run 'em out. When I miss 'em I'll quit.'

"One day in St. Louis the temperature was 110. Not a breath of air. Terrible humidity. St. Louis had a big left-handed first baseman. I think his name was Farrell. Honus was on first. I gave him the signal to go down on the next pitch. The batter swung and missed, leaving Honus in between bases.

"He did not wait for the first and second baseman to run him down. He stopped dead, wipped his forehead and said to Farrell, who had the ball. 'I'm not going to let you chase me up and down the base line on a hot day like this.' Honus then walked toward first base and as he did Farrell threw the ball to the pitcher.

"When Honus reached first, instead of going to the dugout, he stood on the bag. Then Farrell tumbled. I've never seen, even an Irishman so mad. He pushed Honus off the bag and kept on pushing him off at the same time demanding that the pitcher throw him the ball.

"THEN WITH the ball he would push Honus off the bag and touch him with it. It took all the umpires and half the players to subdue Farrell. Honus was safe of course, which even the St. Louis players agreed by ribbing Farrell. I've seen Honus pull a lot of good ones on both smart and dumb players, but any time I want a good laugh I recall the look on Farrell's face when his brain perked to the fact that Honus was not perched on first base because of the heat."

I think Mr. Bowyer has favored me and my congregation with a couple of pretty good anecdotes. I thought I had heard most of the Wagner stories but these had escaped me. He might have added that the narrator, Clarke, was one of the greatest of the baseball managers, in a class with McGraw, Connie Mack, and Joe McCarthy and maybe more valuable because he was nearly always a working manager.

"I agree with you that for color it was old 'Lumber Wagon' Wagner," says Mr. Bowyer. "However, it was also something to see the infield play Larry Lajoie for a bunt. He cut their legs off—but if you don't want lots of mail, don't stimulate us old fellows with time on our hands."

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: I wish you would tell me what is behind the jitters over the presidential election. I get the idea from some of the stuff I read and hear that it is supposed to be a bad thing for us to become excited over voting.

You take it from me, kiddo, that anyone who tries to take my election fun away from me is going to grab a bear by the tail. I don't have many pleasures and I'll fight for them. They might just as well tell me it's bad for my morale to smoke cigars.

If it's good for our wartime morale to have baseball games, horse races, movies, radio skits and girl shows, no one should object to the good, clean fun of a national election. What if the folks do get excited? It doesn't hurt them to get excited at ball games and girl shows, does it?

It's the kind of excitement they live for. Being able to look forward to a monster exhibition of national politics every four years keeps us from getting into a rut. An election is as important a part of the American way of life as staying up late on Saturday night and bumping fenders and falling out of canoes on the Fourth of July.

I can hardly wait for the full, rich sarcasm to begin to drip from the eager tongues of the campaign orators and for the boys in the back room to turn on the steam. I've saved up $100 on the sly just to lay bets, because I usually pick the wrong horse anyway and will lose my wad.

I dropped practically everything I had on old Bob LaFollette in 1924, at good fat odds which didn't mean a thing. I really thought the old boy would win and I'd make a killing. That's the kind of a sucker I am, but I never get tired of it.

Starting the middle of next September and lasting till the returns are in on election night, I'll hang on every word and dirty dig. I'll be as wrapped up as a kid at a picture show. I'll cheer for the hero and itch to get my hands on the villain. Your aunt will think I'm going crazy, at least she always has.

But I'll just be enjoying myself. I may even get into a fist fight, if I can find someone I can lick. I'll shoot off my mouth and wear campaign buttons and stir up excitement here in the store and probably insult some of my best friends. And I'll enjoy every minute of it. As soon as it's over I'll start looking forward to the next one. If I had to name the thing that's most fun about being an American I'm not sure but what I'd put down presidential elections first. Man oh man, do we get stirred up!

We got your letter. In regard to that matter of the maple syrup you mentioned, I will keep my eye peeled when the sugar camps open and try to pick up a couple of gallons for you if the price is right.

OFFICER KILLS 3, WOUNDS 5

Lieutenant Is Felled by Police Gun After Running Amuck in California.

By The Associated Press

RIVERSIDE, Calif., March 7—Two girls and a policeman were slain and five other persons were wounded yesterday at nearby Camp Anza by a 31-year-old army officer before police bullets injured the assailant, the camp commander reported. A military board of inquiry is seeking to establish the motive for the shooting.

Killed when 2nd Lt. Beaufort G. Swancutt of La Crosse, Wis., suddenly cut loose with a .45-caliber army automatic Sunday night, said Col. Earle R. Sarles, camp commander, were:

Miss Dorothy Douglas, 18, of Long Beach, Calif.

Miss Lourdine Livermore, 18, of Long Beach.

Arthur B. Simpson, 34, a Riverside police radio patrolman.

The camp commander and witnesses described the affray:

Swancutt, his close friend, 2nd Lt. Harry J. Light, and the two girls were playing cards in the Camp Anza officers' club about 10:30 p. m. after dining in Riverside. Suddenly Swancutt rose from his chair, drew his side arm and shot Miss Douglas and Miss Livermore in the chest and Lt. Light in the hand and leg. The girls died shortly in the post hospital.

Another bullet struck Lt. Aldace Minard, 38, of Pomona, Calif., who was passing by.

Rushing to the officers' quarters, Swancutt awakened his superior officer, Capt. Aubrey G. Serfling, 27, of Preston, Minn., and demanded another gun clip, explaining he was on guard duty and had lost the clip he had. Serfling refused. Swancutt shot him twice in the abdomen.

Running outside, he wounded Corp. Robert Sampson.

He then forced Sgt. John E. Roberts to drive him into the suburban town of Arlington.

There he stopped a car driven by Ray Schlegel, Los Angeles, and ordered Schlegel, his wife, and cousin, to get out of the car with the Schlegels' eight-months-old baby.

Officers Simpson and E. F. Cole then appeared, said Police Chief Nestor Brule, bullets from Swancutt's gun killed Simpson and wounded Schlegel. Cole fired, hitting Swancutt in the stomach, chest and side.

A military court will try Swancutt on a murder charge, Col. Sarles added.

CONFERENCES SET ON CHILD WELFARE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 7 — More than 300 juvenile court and child-caring programs workers will meet in five Ohio cities tomorrow for the second of six sectional conferences on juvenile delinquency.

Meetings will be held at Columbus, Lebanon, Athens, Findlay and Kent and will be attended by representatives from each of the state's 88 counties.

Sponsored jointly by the Ohio Probation society and the state welfare department, the meetings have been devised to train persons working with agencies trying to curb juvenile delinquency.

Experts indicate the wartime increase in delinquency has not yet been checked.

"During the past year juvenile delinquency showed a marked increase with the problem daily becoming more acute," said Dr. C. H. Calhoon, executive psychologist for the state bureau of juvenile research.

Hitler Looks In Vain for Foxhole As Troubles Grow

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

Yesterday as a blue Monday on Hitler's calendar, for with great allied offensives tearing into him from both sides in the climactic campaigns of the European war there wasn't a fox hole in which he could hide.

Both Russia and the western allies continued to push the all highest far beyond his limits. America again demonstrated her growing aerial might in a terrific drive which shook the very foundations of an already shattered Berlin, and Britain's airforce last night strewed death and destruction over a wide area.

The detonations of the allied block-busters more or less tell their own story. The Muscovites' fresh master stroke in the southern Ukraine, however, is a bit complicated and your attention (maps please) is invited to one of the most beautifully developed strategies of the war.

The fresh development is that Red Marshal Zhukov's new southwestward offensive has ripped a great gap in the vital Lwow-Odessa railroad at the junction of Volochisk, just east of Tarnopol. This means that Zhukov has severed Hitler's life-line to Odessa and the famous Dnieper bend area. That road was the last important communication left to the Nazi dictator in this area.

With the Lwow-Odessa railroad cut, German Marshal Von Mannstein is in a tough spot. He may be forced to pull his south Ukrainian armies back to the Bessarabian border. His communications with the fatherland then wo'd be via the roundabout route through Rumania. Ultimately he would have to retreat into that Balkan state.

This is exactly the position for which the Red staff has been maneuvering for long weeks, ever since the Russians consolidated their hold on recaptured Kiev. Using Kiev as a pivotal base, they started the westward drive which has thrust a spearhead into the heart of pre-war Poland.

As that steadily growing column extended into enemy territory, the Muscovites kept shooting sickle-like offensives out of it to the south. These fast moving hooks gathered in large bodies of Nazis and annihilated them.

From the beginning the Red aim had been the same—to slash the Lwow-Odessa railroad far to the west near the old Polish border and compel Von Mannstein to face about and fight with his back to the Balkans.

Political Task

Sure, Von Mannstein has known what was happening to him. He's one of Hitler's key soldiers. As I've explained in previous columns, Von Mannstein has been doing a suicide political job for his master. The Russian gateway to the Balkans had to be protected at all hazards, even though it cost the lives of a host of German soldiers. A breach of that gateway would mean an explosion of the Balkan peninsula, and southeastern Europe thus would be lost to Germany.

Just take a look at that long, finger-like Nazi salient which extends eastward into the Russian-held territory of the Dnieper bend. Within the bend there were at one time some half million German troops. Those Red hooks which have reached down from the north have annihilated many, but there still are strong Hitlerian forces hanging on. Other Nazis are clinging to the Crimea, and also are in danger of being cut off.

So Marshal Von Mannstein probably is in the tightest place he has ever been in his life. There's one thing which might ease his position, and that's the e rly arrival of spring, which already has been playing about the steppes. The warm weather will turn the terrain into a sea of mud and vastly impede military operations for several weeks.

The Reds are driving hard to make the most of the remaining time. It will be a great race to watch.

Early Spring In Russia Threat To Italian Fighting

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 7—Reports of early spring thaws on the Russian front caused fresh concern here today over the allied campaign in Italy.

Any Soviet slowdown might enable the Germans to throw new divisions into the Italian fighting, in which the allies already have encountered fierce resistance ever since their initial landings on "the boot" last September.

The situation is not considered urgently critical, but plenty of cause for dejection remains, in the opinion of thoroughly competent judges, with the present danger being that of stalemate.

Stalemate would mean:

1. No advance on the main frontline and no expansion of the Anzio beachhead.

2. Failure to reap the enormous political rewards of the capture of Rome, which appear to have prompted the Anzio assault in the first place.

3. The men on the beachhead would be placed in an almost intolerable position, with the sea at their backs and German artillery on three sides.

It is expected the Germans will reinforce their armies down the boot every time changed military conditions elsewhere allow.

The weather is almost certain to make a major change in the Russian front. Hitler may shift reserve divisions to Italy, to hold or even smash the allies there.

It still is understood the Germans in Italy equal if not outnumber allied ground forces but that the allies have an air force fully adequate to offset enemy infantry strength. Weather has been blamed for the inadequate use of this air force.

For the time being the Germans appear to have exhausted themselves in attack. The initiative, however, remains in German hands.

Some strategists place responsibility for this fact on those who sponsored the idea of the Anzio landing and permitted it to be undertaken without assurance of success in making a deep penetration during the first few days.

Bad Coughs Yield Quickly To This Home Mixture

Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Cooking. Saves Money.

Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds, that you mix in your own kitchen. It's so easy to prepare that a child could do it, but once tried, you'll never again be without it.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of very wonderful cough syrup. It's thrifty, too—about four times as much for your money. And children take it willingly, because it tastes so good.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that's surprising. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Findlay's Close Shave at Hands of Kenton Highlight of Week

By HAROLD HARRISON
Ohio Associated Press Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., March 7—Club note: The Monday morning "coaches" association met yesterday in hundreds of Ohio cities, towns and hamlets for roundtable discussions of last week's sectional and district high school basketball tournament games. Among the items they discussed were . . .

The fact that Kenton held undefeated Findlay to a 39 to 37 count was all the more remarkable when it is considered that only a month ago Findlay whipped the same team on the same floor, 68 to 27. Kenton had a 27 to 14 lead at half-time Saturday and the Wildcats still were seven points out in front with four minutes remaining. . . . Findlay's final point came when a technical foul was called on Art Mehaffey, Kenton coach, for rushing out on the playing floor to protest to officials over the way they were calling 'em. . . .

Martins Ferry and Tiltonsville turned in some of the best offensive performances of the week and they'll be playing each other in the first game of the district at Steubenville Thursday evening. Martins Ferry piled up 143 points in two games and Tiltonsville totaled 157 points in its two encounters. . . . Big Alex Groza, Martins Ferry center whose name is popping up frequently in the balloting on The Associated Press All-Ohio team, connected for 36 points against Bellaire. . . . In that game Martins Ferry scored 35 points in the second quarter which figures up to better than four points a minute. . . .

Six Still Undefeated

There may be a few "sleepers" in the ranks but six teams still in the running for the 1944 titles are known to be undefeated. They are Newark, Martins Ferry, Findlay and Cincinnati Xavier in Class A and Sugar Creek-Shanesville and Ashville in Class B. . . .

Dayton Kiser must have felt very tired of it all by the time the first half of its game with Middletown ended. The score at that point stood: Middletown 29, Dayton Kiser 0. Middletown finally won 50 to 7, holding Kiser to just three field goals. . . .

The defeat Lima St. John's handed Bluffton eliminated one of the state's undefeated teams from the running but St. John's hasn't been doing badly either. The Lima boys now have a string of 14 consecutive victories. . . .

When the time came for the tournament at Bellevue to start there wasn't a single visiting player on hand. All were hung up in traffic snarls brought about by the week-end snowstorm. . . .

Zanesville Decision Due

Zanesville thinks it may see the state Class B title decided during the coming week-end. Competing in the district there will be Philo, West Lafayette, Sugar Creek-Shanesville and Walnut Creek. Among them they have lost only four games all season. Sugar Creek is unbeaten in 26 games; West Lafayette and Walnut Creek have lost only once each (to Sugar Creek in both instances) and Philo has been beaten only twice (both ties to McConnelsville which Philo whipped in tourney play). . . .

No more than two of the teams which reached the state Class A finals last year can do it again this season. Lima Central already is out and Newark and Martins Ferry will play in the same regional. Tipp City and Waynesburg also are the only Class B 1943 finalists still in the running for this year's crown. Yorkville the champs, and Middle Point already have been eliminated.

Heydler, National League Veteran, Sees Game Secure

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 7—If you think baseball should fold up for the duration, or that the fans will not turn out to see the talent-depleted teams in action, you can get yourself a swell argument with John A. Heydler.

Come August, Mr. Heydler will be 75 years old, and he's spent a mite more than 50 of those years with the National league, 16 as its president before retiring in 1934 when he accepted a life-time job as chairman of the league's board.

The white-haired gentleman who has seen the national game weather many storms should know whereof he speaks, and here's what he has to say:

"Don't worry about baseball giving up in wartime. Discounting the huge investment angle, the clubs and the leagues have other and greater reasons for continuing.

"For 44 years the National league has operated with the same eight clubs. Counting the eight years those clubs were part of the old 12-team league, they've been together 52 years. Why, Boston and Chicago haven't been out of the league a minute since it was organized back in 1876.

"There is a pride of organization among the major league clubs. The long association has placed a halo around the teams and the game, and it will not be discarded.

"Some fear the attendance may fall far under the usual standard, but I do not subscribe to that idea I don't believe the absence of established stars will hamper the gate to any great extent."

SHIFTS FROM COURT TO FAIRWAY

Jesse Owens Believes Dash Record Someday Will Hit Nine Seconds

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, March 7—The place where he gained his greatest triumphs is being blasted off the map, but coffee-colored Jesse Owens at 30 still can run 100 yards under ten seconds.

"At least I think I can," grinned Jesse across a desk at the Ford Motor company where he is employed as a public relations man. "Last summer I ran in a war relief meet in Canada and they clocked me in :09.8. I think I could do that well right now."

Jesse weighs 175, only half a dozen pounds more than in his cinder pounding days at Ohio State university and his triple triumph in the 1938 Olympic games at Berlin.

"I guess that Olympic stadium must be a heap of rubble by now," he said solemnly, "and I hope it is. But my biggest track thrill was winning the 100 meters there. Eddie Tolan, who won the 100 at Los Angeles in 1932, says his Olympic victory also was his biggest thrill. He's working in Detroit, too, you know."

Owens still holds many of the records he established but he predicts that probably all will be replaced in his lifetime.

"Track records are made to be broken," he asserted. "Someone is going to come along one of these days and push the 100 yard record nearer nine seconds flat. Whether they'll ever shave fourtenths of a second off the present mark of :09.4 is hard to say. That would be pretty fast."

Owens says his track days are definitely finished. He's settled down here with his wife and three daughters after several years of barnstorming in which his earnings were relatively small. For exercise he has taken up golf and bowling.

Universal Wins First Playoff from Huber Team, 32 to 27

Fairfield Girls Play Tie Game with Caledonia But Clinch Season's Crown.

Universal Cooler's basketball squad returned to some of the vigor displayed in the first round of the County basketball league season when it defeated Huber Manufacturing's quintet, 32 to 27, in the first play-off game for the championship last night at the Y. M. C. A.

Should Cooler win a game scheduled for next Monday night, it will win the county crown. In case Cooler loses, another game will be played next Tuesday night to decide the championship.

Huber had the lead in the first quarter. At the half the score was tied at an unlucky 13. Cooler made 12 points in the third quarter and seven points in the last quarter to Huber's six.

Fairfield Engineering girls finished their season with undisputed championship in the women's division as a result of a 28-point tie game played last night with Caledonia girls. According to women's rules, tie games give one point to each side. Standings on women's games at the Y are based on a point system. Before last night, Fairfield was ahead by two points. Thus they gained the championship. Huber Manufacturing girls defeated Marion Steam Shovel girls to land in a tie with Caledonia for second place. Huber and Caledonia will play next week to decide the holder of second place.

It was announced that a dance will be held for players and friends at the Y tonight from 9 to 12

REPUBLICANS HEAR HUGH S. JENKINS

Attorney General Candidate Speaks at Meeting.

Hugh S. Jenkins of Columbus, [illegible] of the Ohio Unemployment Compensation Division and candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, was guest speaker at a meeting of Marion county Republicans Monday night. He was introduced by Cecil R. Leavens, former county engineer and present purchasing agent for the state highway department.

Mr. Jenkins spoke informally of his experiences with the division which he formerly headed, and said Ohio workers (numbering approximately 2,500,000) have a fund of $350,000,000 built up, according to reports from Washington, under the present one per cent payroll deduction plan. At the present compensation rate, approximately $16 a week, the current fund would take care of 1,000,000 Ohio unemployed workers for one year and still leave a balance of nearly $70,000,000. Mr. Jenkins pointed out that during 1943 the interest alone exceeded all benefit payments in Ohio. He took a definite stand against the Wagner bill, so-called "From the Cradle to the Grave bill," which would require six per cent contributions from employer and employe.

State Representative Earl E. Thomas also explained the workings of the Ohio unemployed compensation law, details of which he stated were dictated by the federal administration. Mr. Thomas said that retirement payments are at present inadequate and that it was his hope that revisions would be made upward. He pointed out that a worker retiring at the present time at age of 65, having contributed for five years would receive payments of $23.75 a month; if he continued to work for 15 years longer his payments would increase only to $29 a month.

Marion Hinklin and Walter Johnson reported for the committee on the Lincoln day dinner sponsored by the club.

DO YOU WANT AN ESSENTIAL OCCUPATION WITH A POST-WAR FUTURE?

We need a number of men for permanent positions as "mechanical tabulating equipment mechanics"—officially defined by Selective Service headquarters as an essential occupation.

WE are a large, well-established manufacturer of office machines and equipment. Our entire production is going to war manufacturers and government bureaus. We urgently need men who are mechanically minded—not necessarily with mechanical experience—to keep these essential office machines operating at top speed in war plants and government offices. We teach you everything you need to know about the machines, and we pay you a salary while you are learning. The positions are permanent, with excellent opportunities for advancement.

YOU are a man with a knack for mechanical work, even though you may not be using that knack at present. You are a high-school graduate and U. S. citizen. The armed forces have passed you by, and will continue to do so. You are not doing war work now. You are ambitious, loyal, a good worker, eager to get ahead.

YOU AND WE should get together. Write us a brief confidential letter, telling us about yourself. Give us also your age and phone number. Write today if possible.

ADDRESS BOX 52
The Marion Star

P.S. Do you have a friend who should know about this opportunity? We'd appreciate your calling him about it—and so would he!

RETURN TO ZEAL OF EARLY CHURCH URGED

The need of the church to regain the "dynamic power and fearlessness of the early church" was the theme emphasized by Dr. A. O. Miller of Heidelberg college, Tiffin, who spoke in the union service in Epworth Methodist church Sunday night. His subject was "The Church and the World." Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church presided and A. F. Busick was in charge of the forum period following the lecture.

Introducing his lecture by declaring that the world "is 'out of joint' and always has been from the Christian point of view, unredeemed," Dr. Miller gave an analysis of religion in relation to world civilizations.

Contrasts and tensions in the Christian's life, he asserted come because he is a citizen as well as a churchman. As a churchman to cooperate and to serve others.

Dr. Miller will speak next Sunday night in First Evangelical and Reformed church. Cecil Gabler will preside for the forum and Rev. E. H. Wierth will preside.

Marion Seaman In Carrier Crew Given Excellency Citation

A Marion seaman, member of an aircraft carrier serving in the Pacific area, has received a copy of a presidential unit citation for excellency of achievement in the war zone, according to word received by his parents to whom he forwarded a copy of the citation. Each member of the crew received a copy of the document.

The typewritten copy of the citation received by Carroll W. Williams, petty officer second class in the Navy, and signed for President Roosevelt, commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, by Frank Knox, secretary of the Navy, reads in part, "for consistently outstanding performance and distinguished achievement during repeated action against the enemy Japanese forces in the Pacific war area Dec. 7, 1941 to Nov. 15, 1942," and lists action in which the men took part. Listed are the Gilbert and Marshall islands raid, Feb. 1, 1942; Wake island raid, Feb. 24, 1942; Marcus Island raid, March 4, 1942; battle of Midway, June 4-6, 1942; occupation of Guadalcanal, Aug. 7-8, 1942; battle of Stewart island, Aug. 24, 1942; battle of Santa Cruz islands, Oct. 26, 1942; battle of Solomon islands, Nov. 14 and 15, 1942, in which 35 Japanese vessels were sunk and 185 aircraft downed by the carrier.

Assigned to the aircraft carrier during that action, Seaman Williams has been transferred recently to a new ship.

A graduate of Harding High School, he enlisted in the service in February, 1941. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Williams of 246 Chase street.

Two brothers in the service are Eugene Williams, petty officer first class in the Navy, who was transferred recently from Miami, Fla., where he was attending a Naval electrical engineering school, to Texas where he will be assigned to a ship, and Pvt. Keith Williams who was at home recently on a 10-day furlough from Ft. Ord, Calif. Pvt. Williams was football captain last year at Harding High school and president of his class. He entered service Oct. 6.

Ohio Boy, 12, Enters Yale, Youngest on Record

By The Associated Press

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 7 —Merrill Kenneth Wolf, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Herbert Wolf, Cleveland, O., lawyers, who spoke a complete sentence at the age of four months, has entered Yale—youngest student on record.

A transfer from Western Reserve university, young Wolf, accredited with an I.Q. of 182 or a mental age of 20, wants to major in music.

On his first birthday, the child read through a first grade reader for five-year-olds and at the age of 12 months he picked out a Liszt melody on the piano.

So good was Merrill that at the local trade school in Cleveland he was advised to leave for the good of the other pupils.

He wants to emerge from Yale with a Ph. D. degree which he says he would like to win before he is 18.

At Yale, other students declare he is "just like any other 12-year-old boy—only smarter."

Dependable Furniture for 78 Years

So Husbands May Come Along—

On purchases of importance, such as living-room, dining-room or bedroom suites, or complete outfits, we are always glad to make a special appointment for the evening, so that all interested can take a hand in the buying.

This is a nice way to buy too. You have the store all to yourselves; you can choose leisurely and carefully; there is no danger of making a hurried or an uncertain decision.

Your furniture has to be "lived with" practically all your life. It is constantly under your eye; it is your "companion", so to speak; it does much to produce the right environment in the home; so it ought to be selected with great care.

Our phone number is 2238. Call and state what evening and what hour is convenient for you. And please remember that this offer entails no obligation on your part to buy — unless you feel like buying.

GOOD DEMAND LIFTS PRICES

Berlin Bombing Acts as Encouraging Influence on Peace Stocks.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 7—Broad and active investment demand revived in today's stock market and lifted a number of recently sluggish leaders to 1944 peaks with gains of fractions to more than a point.

Drying up of selling lately inspired reinstatement of commitments by some customers who had been waiting for a sizable reaction. Stocks with favorable peacetime prospects apparently were responsive to the heavy air-pounding of Germany.

The direction was upward from the start and advances were well maintained near the fourth hour.

Tops for the year or longer were touched by American Telephone, Western Union "A," General Motors, Chrysler, White Motors, Goodyear, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, General Tire, Du Pont, Houston Oil and American Power & Light preferreds.

ARGENTINA PUTS BAN ON ASSOCIATED PRESS

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, March 7—The reception of Associated Press news sent by wireless from New York was banned yesterday by the Argentine government.

The government also cancelled permission for use of a leased wire between Buenos Aires and Montevideo. Both these facilities, it charged, were used in violation of laws and rules of the country.

This action by the director of posts and telegraph followed similar, but milder measures adopted Saturday against La Prensa Unida, United Press affiliate.

The resolution of the director of posts and telegraph declared after an inspection of the receiving station, authorized in September, 1936, it was proved news received there was delivered to The Associated Press and La Prensa Asociada, which distributed it in Argentina and abroad.

The government took no action against Reuters, British news agency.

BRICKER AIMS BLOW AGAINST NEW DEAL

Invites Democratic South To Join in Revolt.

By The Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 7—Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio invited the Democratic solid south yesterday to join "in elimination of the New Deal" and said that "after this all-important task has been accomplished, I would like to see a system of two strong parties maintained in every state in the union."

"I am firmly convinced that the sentiment of the great majority of the people of the south, like that of the majority in the rest of the country, is against the New Deal," the Ohio chief executive, who is a candidate for Republican presidential nomination, declared here in an address prepared for delivery to the Florida State Republican executive committee.

"They are ready to express that sentiment at the polls and there is just one way open for them to do it—that is to vote the Republican ticket in 1944."

Bricker termed the recent resignation of Senator Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky.) as senate Democratic leader in protest against President Roosevelt's tax bill veto message, and Barkley's subsequent unanimous reelection, "one of the most encouraging developments in the preservation of representative government since congress balked the New Deal's abortive attack upon the supreme court."

SCATTERED BUYING HELPS GRAIN PRICES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 7—Scattered buying, influenced to some extent by firmness in securities and cotton, pushed all grain prices up fractionally in a generally quiet trade today. Price fluctuations in the wheat and oats pits were held within a narrow range by lack of incentive for traders to enter those markets.

Rye prices of one-fourth ... a cent from the low points ... traders began to ... [illegible]

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

HUGH GRANTLAND flashed another grin at me, and my first feeling of wonderment at his apparent light-heartedness — for Hugh is generally what our British cousins would describe as being "on the serious side"—smifted to understanding.

Wherever he and Lee Chow had been before their unheralded arrival at the farmhouse, they had been under tremendous strain, probably facing deadly peril. They had reached sanctuary, and for a few hours, perhaps days, as Hugh had intimated, they could rest and relax As a result, his spirits had risen far higher than their usual level, and was finding outlet in mirthful quips and grins.

He Down

"You may lock the door on the outside, if you wish," he said. "I assure you, I'm going to keep Lee Chow in bed, and in ten minutes, I'm going to lie down and have a snooze myself. But suppose I hear wild shrieks from Katie, or Faith falls down stairs?"

"Jim and Katie and my mother-in-law are on guard over Faith," I told him, "and as for Katie if her shrieks are ignored, they will subside much more quickly And now, I simply must get over to the Ticer farm. It may be some time before Mrs. Ticer can get a telephone call over to Charlie Kent He's the favorite taximan of all Sag Harbor, and it's hard sometimes to catch him at home."

"Then I mustn't detain you a second longer, except to warn you that you mustn't help with that wet clothing of ours."

With a sudden thought, I turned back to him.

"If I promise that, may I use your outer suits and Lee Chow's in any way I may need them?" I asked.

Surprise

He gave me a quick, surprised glance, then his lips quirked into a smile.

"You may wear them, or lend them, just so we get them back again."

"I can promise that, and also that I won't help with their laundering," I told him. "Au revoir, now."

I slipped out of the door and closed it after me with the sense of having accomplished one important aspect of the problem so unexpectedly thrust upon me. Then I went along the corridor to the nursery, and tapped lightly

When my mother-in-law opened it, I put my finger on my lips as I glanced past her at Faith, busily engaged in undressing a doll preparatory to putting it into its crib, and then beckoned her into the hall. She closed the door behind her and looked at me inquiringly

"Everything going all right?" she queried

"Perfectly," I said "Major Grantland and Lee Chow are safely in Father's suite with the door locked, and will not appear again for some time. Fortunately, the flue from their fireplace connects with one of the main chimneys, so there'll be no question concerning a fire there in his absence.

To Ticers

"I am going to talk to Jim and Katie now, and then go over to the Ticers. After I get back, there will be no need of keeping Faith confined in any particular room. She may have the run of the house again, except for a little while this afternoon which I will explain to you the first minute I can. But, if you don't mind keeping her in here, on this floor until I get back from Ticer's, I'd be grateful."

"In this room will be best," she decided instantly, "unless I should want something from my own room. Then I'll take her with me And good luck, my dear!"

She gave me an affectionate little tap on the shoulder as she turned back to the nursery, and with a husky "Thank you," I walked away, feeling much as if I had received an accolade, and also hugging to me the warm assurance that I did not need to worry at all about Faith's welfare, or her chance to gain any knowledge of our visitors.

In the kitchen, I found Katie, finishing the dishes I had begun to wash, together with those from the trays for the studio breakfast.

Defiant

She looked up at me half defiantly.

"I know you say, I nefer to tooch dese, now I haf to vork outdoors," she said, "but dees morning dif-fe-ent. Me, I tink you got plenty to do looking after dot Major Hugh Grantland and dot old Chink."

I knew there was no use correcting Katie's language, any more than there was for combating her ancient dislike for the two men But I also knew that she would serve them diligently, and keep their secret diligently, and keep their secret sacred, so I took refuge in agreement with her.

"You're right, Katie; I have plenty to do just now, and I want to talk to you and Jim right away. Will you call him in?"

"Sure ting. He in wood shed, getting oop wood, so dose chaps have plenty in your faders room."

She vanished on the word, and then reappeared with Jim, both of them looking at me inquiringly.

"Sit down," I told them "I want to ask you some questions"

Then I put the first one, immediately.

"Jim, how much are you going to need Katie with the farm work in the next few days?"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Premature Heart Beats

THE HEART is the hero of our physiological household — strong, reliable burden bearer, responsible, responsive to demands — and, above all, the ultimate virtue — usually silent. The stomach is forever yelping its head off about the work you give it; the brain is for-ever mislaying its tools, but the heart is Old Man River.

Whenever it drops its uncomplaining role and begins to knock on the door of consciousness and demand notice, the effect is so startling that we rush immediately to the conclusion that something very dire must be at hand

"Could you give me some information about a heart ailment I have of late. It seems to skip beats. It beats some beats and then some beats are stronger than others. I am 59 years old," writes a correspondent.

Yes, I can give you some information about that. Your whole letter is a diagnosis. You are 59 years old and you have become conscious of your heart beating It seems to be irregular. It is. You have extrasystoles — the palpitation of middle age. Half of the human race between the ages of 40 and 60 experience it. And there is nothing sinister to it, frightening though it as at first. In fact it is a sort of guarantee of long life. It means your heart is still irritable and lively.

Doctors did not always know about the harmlessness of this form of palpitation. It was Dr. James MacKenzie, the general practioner from the North of England, who came down to London about 1910 and taught the specialists about this and many other things.

The specialists used to take a very grave view of this disorder. MacKenzie tells a dramatic story of an old man who consulted him. When he was much younger, at the beginning of a promising career, he began to notice his heart skipping. He consulted a heart specialist He was just ready to expand into a new business enterprise which would sweep him on to great success, but involved a good deal of traveling and residence for nine years in Australia.

The specialist advised against going on with it, He gave him only a few years of life. He ordered a quite life in the country. The man renounced his ambitions, settled quietly in the country to await death. He was still awaiting it twenty-five years later, was still in vigorous health and still had his extrasystoles

Misinformation about them can, you see, have serious consequences. In this case it ruined a man's life

James MacKenzie, as I said proved that they were harmless by his records — records of the lives of his patients, whom he had observed with these skipping hearts over a period of twenty or thirty years. It showed the advantage of practicing medicine in a small community where you know everyone and can follow their fortunes.

Premature beats is probably a better name for the condition than either skipped beats or extrasystols The extra beat comes in ahead of time—prematurely. And then, because the heart has temporarily used up its energy by the extra beat, there is a long pause and then the heart gives a tremendous beat and that is what my correspondent feels

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, March 8

IT IS PROBABLE that some sudden visitation, disruption or disintegrating circumstance may make it desirable to concentrate all plans and programs on future or long range objectives rather than current affairs The judgment may be erratic or unsound, and the impulses or emotions too insistent for rational or dependable thinking and planning. With postponing or referring critical situations to elders friends or sound heads of experience and conservative views ultimate benefits may be most stable and eminently worthwhile. In home social or romantic adventures preserve calm and avoid erratic outbursts

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of sudden and unforeseen developments, of separative, disintegrating or devastating force, which suggests postponement of current affairs until future opportunities may be relied upon and the personal judgment be less emotional, erratic or turbulent In crises seek wise counsel elders, friends or superiors whose vision is riper and more dependable. There is much to be gained by this long range planning for future security and stability, with domestic, social, financial, even romantic and emotional adventures gaining by these benign postponements and patience.

A child born on this day may have much stability and soundness of character in spite of eccentric ideas or emotional or temperamental outbursts.

OBJECTORS HELP U. S. FIGHT FOREST FIRES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 7—Conscientious objectors to war have been anxious in volunteering for the dangerous work of parachuting down to forest fires, the house learned today.

E. W. Loveridge, assistant chief of the forest service, gave the appropriations committee the details in asking for a deficiency appropriation of $1,535,000 mainly to fight forest fires, during the next fiscal year beginning in July.

The parachutists, known as smoke jumpers, were of enormous help in combatting forest fires, Loveridge said.

"We got a great number of volunteers from the conscientious objectors who apparently wanted to show it was not a question of a lack of courage on their part that they did not go to war, because this parachuting is quite a dangerous thing," Loveridge added

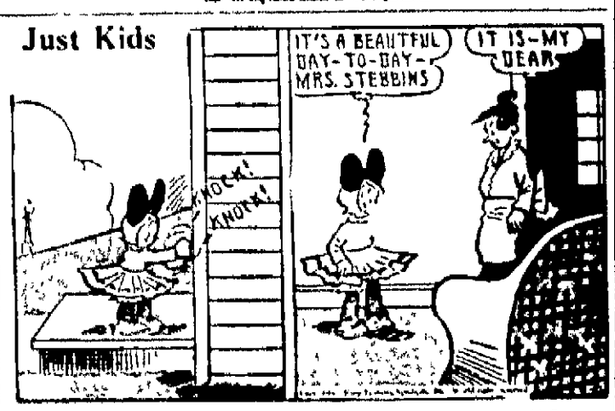

Sixty of them were utilized, he reported, out of 350 that volunteered from camps holding 1,700 objectors.

Twelve men, Loveridge said, lost their lives fighting fires during 1943 Ten of these were United States soldiers or marines
